Funny sounds app download

It's 2019, and no matter how much your too much hipster friend wants to tweet differently, mobile apps are as much a part of our lives as the ever-rising price of your morning slats. With more than 2 million applications to choose from, the tech-y possibilities are unlimited — but your precious phone battery certainly isn't. So how are you supposed to know which ones you really should have? If your idea of fun tries every app until you have the perfect combination to meet your everyday needs, continue. But for those who don't want to waste time browsing the App Store, we've rounded up a list of mobile apps to keep your day running smoothly, from waking up to bedtime. GET DOWN TO A GOOD STARTAlarmy Cost: FreeBy now, we know that hitting the snooze button for some extra zzz's doesn't actually give you more energy, and can start your morning at a pretty unproductive pace. So if you absolutely hate waking up in the morning, what are you supposed to do? Enter Alarmy, the app that will get your butt out of bed - literally. There are three separate ways to turn off the excessively annoying alarm: shaking, dissolving or snapping. Shaking your phone like salt shaking for a given amount of times gives you dreams a mini-workout and gets your blood flowing, making going back to sleep kinda impossible. Solving a maths problem? Easy for some, harder for others, but it still gets your brain cells kicking (and is definitely a better alternative to browsing social media first thing in the morning). But the real payoff is the snap feature, where you have to take a picture of a predetermined place in your home. By the time you're done with one of these, you're wide awake. Screenshot via Keelo/ShutterstockKeeloCost: Free, premium plan $12.99/monthBetween walking, driving, or taking public transport to the gym and back, battling for a turn on the squat machine, and trying not to find yourself in the embarrassment before the Arnold Schwarznegger-bodybuilder-types, going to the gym in the morning looks like a hard fit. Fortunately, Keelo allows you to avoid all the headaches of gym life, while still giving you more energy for the rest of the day through high-intensity, sweat-inducing workouts that can be done in your home. No problem, no questionable gym hygiene, just you and your sweat. And the best part is, the workouts are under 20 minutes - perfect for pressing in before you start your day. Dark SkyCost: $3.99Getting caught in a storm is fun in the rom-coms, but not so much when you're sprinting home through puddles of water without an umbrella. However, with Dark Sky on your phone, there are no more excuses not knowing what's going to fall from the sky, or the temperature, or anything else in relation to the atmosphere. Dipped as a hyperlocal weather app that uses robotic technology to predict the weather, Dark Sky gives you the exact minute when it will start raining at the exact location you currently are. Screenshot via Breathe and Think // Breathe & Think Cost: Free, premium membership $9.99/month What the day hits 2pm, you get tired, distracted, and generally cranky. But this information provides quick and accessible guided meditation to your mind and body too recently. Easy to use, Stop, Breathe & Think is built for all levels of meditators, from beginners to benefits. The text-based introduction to the program gives first-timers the chance to learn the basics of meditate. During guided meditations, live images and relaxing sound help users eliminate the noise of everyday life. So whether you're reeling from a collision with a coworker or exhausted on the subway home of work, Stop, Breathe & Think can give you the inner peace you need to get through the rest of the day. Stuff 3Cost: $9.99 (for iPhone)Let's Face It, there are hundreds of apps to help you manage your hectic workflow, but no one is as thoughtful, and flat-out customizable as Things. Whether it's collecting your mind or being organized for the week ahead, Things is the modern to-do list that allows you to set timers and add events to your calendar in just a few taps. Use the This Evening feature to separate the to-dos you can just tick off at home, easily drag and drop items from one day or list to the next, and add headers to break up larger projects into smaller tasks. To err it off, the Things app has a very minimalist design, making your calendar feel less junk already. IT'S ALL ABOUT HOW YOU FINISHScreenshot via Cocktail Flow/ShutterstockCocktail FlowCost: Free, premium subscription $4.99/monthEnjoying a strong drink at happy hour is fun. Chilling in your home after a long, tires day behind a desk is also fun. Combine your two competing desires with Cocktail Flow, the app that teaches you how to mervae a delicious drink right into the comfort of your own kitchen. Search recipes by category, such as power and even color, and filter through whatever base spirit you have at home. The free app saves you the cost of tipping a bartender, and puts hundreds of different cocktail recipes right at your fingertips to create a small happy hour of your own - minus the crowd. Just WatchCost: FreeKeeping up with all the new releases on Netflix, Hulu, Amazon Prime, HBO, etc. is exhausting. And although it's tempting to give up and just watch Reruns from Martin, Just Watch can immediately check you what titles have been added to each streaming service without the difficulty of scrolling through the home screens themselves. Updated weekly, the app's interface is easy and fast; simply choose which streaming services you subscribe to and filter results by genre, date, and popularity. The days of IDK what to watch will disappear (though finding a title both you and your roommate can agree on are still on you). PzizzCost: Free, pro subscription $9.99/monthEven to the Days, it can still be difficult to relax, relax, and switch all the distracting thoughts we keep awake. For that, there's Pzizz, a sleeper program that uses music, a of sound effects, and soothing voice ear to ensure you fall asleep quickly, stay in your REM cycle and wake up like a new person. Using advanced algorithm technology (that we won't even try to explain here), Pzizz creates a custom soundtrack that differs slightly every night, teaching your mind to associate those sounds with a leisurely sleep. The best free running programs do exactly what they say on the tin: they're free and help you run with you. Nothing better, right? With more people than ever running in lockdown — and the fact that some of the most popular and previously free run apps now charge for some of their services, this is a great way to stay on track. According to one report, we're not just doing more running, we're also talking about managing more — in March, 34 million people discussed the pavement pounding pastime on social media and 207k sharing running statistics from exercise programs — both figures combined more than January and February. National lockdown has forced us from the gym to the garden, to the great outdoors, to try and find a way to stay active and fit — run, it seems, has taken the cake in terms of accessibility and scalability. Thank you, run! But, you know how to run, how can you actually keep it up? From motivational run-walk plans to route trackers, navigation tools, and mile loggers, we've rounded up the 8 best free running apps to help you hit your next PB — including the one that had a 92% jump in downloads on 2019. Wow. Ad - Continue reading under 1 Couch up to 5K All from your dentist to your aunt seems to flirt with the idea of doing Couch up to 5k - the running plan that novice runners and never-run-before-runners are able to run a full 5k. And, according to the BBC, more than 858,000 downloaded the app (backed by the NHS) between March and June. That's a whopping 92% increase on the year before! This app has five different coaches to motivate you on your trip - as well as telling you when to run and when to walk - including comedians Sarah Millican, radio presenter Jo Wiley and Olympian Michael Johnson. Woah. The program can be completed in the guided 9 weeks or longer if you want and this information helps you keep going when you stop seems like the easiest option. There's a halftime clock for when you're halfway so you know to turn around and finish the loop, a pre- and aftergrading system to keep up with your motivation as well as an easy count-down timer so you always know how long left of each run. IOS/ANDROID 2 Map My Run Map My Run, Under Armour's running app, has a myriad of features to make your running experience smoother than ever. It connects with several wearables - including Apple Health, Apple Watch, Garmin, Fitbit, Jawbone, and more - meaning you can head out just your fitness tracker, safe in the knowledge that your stats are still recorded. The app also offers real-time audio coaching on GPS tracked GPS tracked with variable voice for metrics such as pace, distance and height. IOS/ANDROID 3 Adidas Runtastic You may have Adidas running shoes, but have you ever tried their running app? Well, if you haven't side yet because there are so many cool features you need to take advantage of distance, time, speed, height and calorie tracking to sound feedback, targeted challenges and adaptive goals. Oh, and they'll go even one step further, track how many miles you've run into your running shoes and let you know when it's a good time to start thinking about investing in a new pair. They literally thought of everything. Cheers, Adidas. IOS/ANDROID 4 Runkeeper Runkeeper by ASICS does a lot. It can track your runs, set goals to run further and faster, listen to sound statistics that tell you your pace, distance and time, follow a custom plan that keeps improving you and joining virtual challenges in the app. The best bit? The app syncs with your wearables so you can leave your phone at home and head out with just your Apple Watch and still track your stats. IOS/ANDROID 5 Nike Run Club Nike Run Club describes this information as 'your perfect running partner,' and TBH, we should agree with them. Tracking and storing runs in their easy-to-navigate super-aesthetc app makes good use of the GPS to keep you on the trail, listen to audio coaching and set up weekly, monthly, or personal distance challenges as well as bespoke coaching plans to make sure you keep breaking your goals. While the trophies and badges you collect for new achievements can be virtual, they still mean the world to us. Get out there! IOS/ANDROID 6 Running Distance Tracker + Led as the 'most accurate running app available' Running Distance Tracker + track your pace, calories, heart rate, and of course, distance. Use the GPS to find new running routes, take a look at your time and speed splits as well as heart rate and effort zones and listen out for the customizable voice feedback to let you know how you're going. There are paid options within the app, but the basics — and these are really the only ones you need — are free. That's all that matters. IOS/ANDROID 7 Endomondo If you want to sync with other apps, set goals to break, take on challenges and get social with your fellow running mates, Endomondo could be the app for you. With all the classics: run tracking, audio coaching, workout summaries, personal best notifications you can also add fun extras like documenting a particularly good (or difficult) run with a photo, scroll through your friends' workouts and comments to keep them going! There's a premium option, but everything we've listed above is completely, completely free of charge. Winner. IOS/ANDROID 8 Run Coach Run Coach does what it says on the tin: It directs you through and between your runs to make you a better runner too Customize your app as your fitness improves, adjust your schedule if you miss a run and need to recalibrate your app, get access to new pace goals as your abilities increase, sync with your favorite wearables and make good use of the on-hand coaches if you have any questions about nutrition or injury.
